Dear Bountiful Peak Recreation Residence Permittees:

I am writing you concerning winter travel on the Farmington Canyon Road. As you are aware, the road used to be plowed in the winter by FAA. Last year and in the future FAA no longer plows the road. Because the road is not maintained for winter for standard vehicles to travel, we will again close the road once the snow begins and is no longer safe to travel in a standard vehicle. Like last year we will have a side gate for you to travel through on either a snowmobile or atv, at your own risk. We will re-open the road for standard vehicle traffic once the road is clear from snow and dry enough for public safety and there is minimal chance for resource damage. I am just reminding you of the winter closure in an effort for you to plan accordingly.

If you have questions please contact Polly Bergseng the recreation special uses manager at (801) 733-2686.

Sincerely,

CATHERINE H. KAHLOW
Salt Lake District Ranger
